

In today's business environment, communication with customers, partners and suppliers is critical. Mitel MiVoice Office 250 is a hybrid communications platform that simplifies communications, enhances customer service, employee productivity and collaboration while reducing overall telephony costs. It's built on a scalable, digital-IP platform that combines the best of IP telephony and traditional digital-based phone system architectures.

Whether you need a communications solution that supports digital handsets or one that provides your business with access to IP phones, Mitel's MiVoice Office 250 is the answer. In addition, as the solution is flexible, it can be easily scaled to address an ever evolving business. Comms Management, in collaboration with Mitel, have been helping many businesses connect their employees from every location, increasing business productivity and streamlining customer interactions.
